To whom it may concern:

I have worked with Music City Security & Investigations both professionally and personally for approximately 7 years, since 2002. During that time period, they provided me with expertise and support in the areas of physical security and private investigations both professionally and personally.

During a major layoff that occurred in multiple phases over a five-month period affecting every level of the insurance organization that I was a corporate security manager of, Music City Security & Investigations provided armed undercover off-duty police officers for additional physical security. They reacted to all threats and potentially threatening individuals professionally and without an adverse incident.

During my recent divorce proceedings, I utilized their investigative services over a four-month period. It was an emotional time and they provided sound advice utilizing my personal funds to maximum benefit. As a direct result of the evidence that they collected, I won custody of my 7 year-old daughter and received ample visitation with my 8 year-old stepson.

Music City Security & Investigations has always been very responsive and easy to work with on every project ranging from large to small and can be relied upon to treat each project, regardless of size, to be important. They communicate consistently and are on time and on budget with completion of all of the projects. Their work has been a major factor to my success both professionally and personally.

I can confidently recommend Music City Security & Investigations; they are solid and reliable and are experts in their field.

Sincerely,
